THE SACRED PROMISE ORIGINAL-BY IVAN

Gen. 3, 22.
Let Fall from his northern retreat,
Old Winter came early and fleet,
He smote the green garbe of the trees,
And coat them to earth as the loss
Of the year,
Whose hour of departure was near

He hardened the earth with his tread, And on Summer's best beauties he fed, He seared, with his breath, every bird, And turned all the sap to a curd A dark pall He spread over Nature for Fall

He bound up the cisterns and streams. And threw down asiant the bright beams Where he breathed on the drippings at might There reicks hung in the light. Then in white He dread trees, felds, valleys and height

His dominion established at last,
With boastings he rode on the blast
A tyrant became he with age
And war on the Spring did he wage.
Nor retreated,
The birds her bright crowning repeated

Fear not the 'the winter last long.
The promise of God is still strong.
While earth in her orbit roils round,
The seasons in turn shall be found
Heat med cold
Day and night we shall know as of old

Ir has been officially announced that there will be no extra session of Congress before fall, if then. The President is not at all certain that the new Congress would pass a better Refunding bill than the one tvetoed by President Hayes Some of the Republican Representatives favor a 3 per cent bond, and others favor the Carlisle anti-National bank idea. Such Congressmen are sufficient in number, acting with the Democrats, to be able to pass an objectionable refunding measure in spite of the more conservative and far-seeing Republicans. The Secretary of the Treasury intends to use the surplus money now in the Treasury and the surplus revenue throughout the year, which will amount in all to $150,000, 000, to redeem the 6 per cent maturing bonds. It is announced that under law of Congress the Secretary can bor row about $150,000,000 at 3 and 31 per cent interest wherewith to redcem that amount of the 6 per cents.

MR. J. STANLEY BROWN is President Garfield's new Private Secretary. He is a very young man, and it is said owes his place wholly to his own merit. He was a Washington boy who got to helping General Garfield with his correspondence a year ago, and was sent for to go to Mentor after the Chicago Convention. During his nine months' service here he proved so faithful, compe tent and discreet that General Garfield took him to Washington and kept him at the work he had grown accustomed to in Mentor. A man of experience in politics, with a wide knowledge of men and affairs, would in some raspects be of more service to the President, and could take many burdens from his shoulders, but such men usually have their personal relationships and entanglements, their own friends to provide for, and their own axes to grind. With a young man devoted to his service, the President is entirely sale. Mr Brown is single, and fits with the family life of the Garfields as though he had always belonged to it. It is said that he has has no relatives to demand places or social recognition, which is held to be an excellent qualification in a private secretary

NEW YORK, March 28 .- The Times has a long special from Albany, about the federal nominations for this state, and says: Senator Conkling will certainly oppose with all his power the confirmation of Judge Robertson to be collector of the port of New York. The fact appears, says the dispatch, that is very small. the whole programme was the work of the "magnetic" secretary of state. He, it is understood, handed to the Presiwere sent to the senate Tuesday of last week. He foresaw the storm which would be raised by the announcement of these nominations, and had trimmed his sails to take advantage of the gale The nominations were received by the senate on Tuesday morning. During the afternoon and evening of that day, Secretary Blaine and the President assert, many telegrams poured in protesting against the nominations. Then it was Blaine suggested to the Presilent the name of Judge Robertson, his (Blaine's) ardent adherent and advocate, is a panacea for the evils which the administration had brought on itself by its action. The President good naturedly assented to this view with a result now well known.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 28 .- Great activity prevails in preparation for the pendence. defense of Volo. The work of placing torpedoes is commenced. The troops have occupied Tirkeri, on the Turkish side of the entrance of the Gulf of Volo, and earthworks are being constructed there.

ATHENS, March 28 .- On the 6th of April, the anniversary of Greek independence, a grand review will be held, when the King will present colors to the regiments composing the garrison of Athens and selected detanhments from other regiments. The meaning of this act and the reasons for the choice of this occasion is obvious. The ceremony will be followed by orders for the departure of the various corps for their allotted stations on frontiers.

Ar about four o'clock Sunday evening Bartholomew Lingsin, better known as Battling Ann, the Irish Prescher," who has been an inmate of the insane department of the Macon county poor farm for about a year and a half, created no little excitement by making an almost successful attempt to get out of his cell. Since of boots, and being a powerful man and Mass., March 28, 1866, was appropriately something of an athlete, he kicked off a and pleasantly celebrated last evening portion of the boards which held him in at Priest's Hotel, by the immediate relaconfinement. Fortunately Steward Magee appeared at the cell in time to prevent the poor fellow from getting out. By a little strategy the steward succeeded in inducing "Battling Ann" to exchange his boots for a pair of slippers, and now no further danger is apprehended from the kicking of the demented inmate. He is thought to be hopelessly insane and has frequent dangerous snells that occasion much alarm among the sane inmates of the building.

ONE WAY OF GRITING ALONG.

Do Your Trading at Home. We give place to the following, taken from an exchange, which ought to be perused by every citizen: "As the time is drawing near when our citizens will find it necessary to make their spring purchases of carpets, dry goods, wearing apparel, etc., we would call attention to an erroneous custom which has been inaugurated under the mistaken notion that everything purchased away from home is better and cheaper than that bought at home; that is by going or sending by a of the well known couple, who friend to the large cities to buy their goods. The fact is, if an examination is made of the stocks of goods carried by arranged as a surprise, and such it proved the merchants of this city, they will be to be to the evident satisfaction of those found to compare favorably in assortment, quality and prices with those abroad. All goods sold by our nerchants mast be as represented, or their customers will come ages, assembled at the Reform Club back on them; while the foreign mer-Room, and from thence proceeded to the chant, thinking that probably he will not hotel, where all were received with the get another chance, sells for the largest the proverbial cordiality of the gentleman price he can get, and there is no recourse and lady in whose honor the company if a poor bargain is made. Besides our had gathered. While the ladies were merchants live among us, pay their taxes "fixin' things" in the dining hall, the here, and surely deserve our support, all guests made themselves at home in the things being equal. We trust that those brilliantly lighted parlors, engaging in who have been in the habit of doing the conversation and bringing up pleasant things we have mentioned will think betrecollections. Finally the company was ter of it, and spend their money at home, ushered into the banquet hall where a and thus enable our merchants to be the better prepared to meet the increasing demands of trade."

The Howard last evening was crowded to its utmost capacity, and hundreds were turned away who could not even find standing room. Manager Harris is to be congratulated upon the successful opening performance of Haverly's colossal carnival of genuine colored ministrels.

The opening scene, with its six tiers of performers, arranged one above the other, and scenery of santhern nahas, which The Howard last evening was crowded performers, arranged one above the other, amid scenery of southern palms, which was really artistic, painted by Voegtlin, made a fine impression. The big combination opened with the jubilee chorus, "Down Upon the Suanee River," which was given in an effective manner, and called for an encore. McIntosh, Brown, Grace, Bohee, Bland, Kersands and Dick Inttie were recalled for all their selections. The Coonville Guards' parade was a capital act and kept the house in a was a capital act and kept the house in a roar. The Bohee Brothers in their banjo roar. The Bohee Brothers in their banjo songs and sances proved one of the suc-cesses of the evening. The barnyard froites of Bob Mack and his educated bantam were very funny also. THE 19th WIFE.

Biographical Sketch of Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, who Will Lecture Friday Night.

her famous lecture on "Mormomam" at the Opera House, this city, on Friday evening, April 1st, was born in Nauvoo, Ill., April 13, 1844. Her father and mother were both devoted disciples of the Mormon faith. When she was four years old the family removed to Utah At the age of 8, and again at 16, she was baptized according to the usages of the Mormon Church. The latter ceremony was in con nection with the dramatic cremonies of the Endowment House. She contracted her first marriage at the age of 19, the issue of which was two sons, who, with her mother, constitute Mrs. Young's family. This marriage proved too unhappy to be endured, and, yielding to the positive advice of her parents and friends, she consented to divorce. For two years, in the society of her parents and children, she lived a comparatively happy life; then, suddenly, she was made to experi ence the stifling, withering influence of polygamy. Many people wonder how she came to marry Brigham Young; and some, whose prejudices run before their knowledge, condemn her for doing so. But from infancy she was taught that the Mormon faith, including polygamy, embraced all religious truth and revealed the will of God. Although she had al ways shrunk from pulygamy, she felt that her repulsion was sinful; and every Mormon was taught that to disobey Brigham Young was, in effect, to disobey God.—

In 1868, Brigham visited her parents' house, and at once claimed her for his own. The thought of such a union was a horror to her, and for a year she resisted;
but all motives which could influence a conscientious woman, desirous of doing right, united to force her to yield. The true character of Brigham soon became true character of Brigham soon became evident to her—his selfskness, coarseness and hypocrisy. For five years she endured the bondage with ever deepening disgust, until faith in the system was gone. Then, with courage almost unparabled, she broke her chains. As soon as she saw the light she followed it. Could she saw the light she followed it. Could

Narch 11-d3w REDEMPTION NOTICE.

A Connecticut man writes to the Hartford Times that he has become asquainted in South Carolina, where he is temporarily staying, with remarkably prolific families. He refers particularly to twenty that belong to the select society of Charleston and Columbia, and that average over fourteen children each, the twenty having together 286 children, and the number that belong to each ranging from 10 to 26. The writer knows also of two families that have had twins two successive years, and one that had twins two years and triplets the third. He thinks it would not have been surprising had South Carolina shown a greater increase than 200,000 during the past two years.

What the first Eat and Brink.

Several persons after a concert re-cently gathered around a table in an uptown restaurant. It was eleven o'clock at night. The young ladies were of va-rions nationalities. The lively French girl ordered a plate of clear soup and a gris ordered a piaze or clear scup and a glass of wine. A frill and beautiful German girl called for a cold potsto salad and a glass of Erlanger beer. A blonde English girl asked for a ham omlette with tea. Of the two American civil in the protection of the two American civil in the protection of the contraction of girls in the party, one ordered an oyster stew and the other had some pink ice cream, with macarooms.
